

- Defenders in red zone are considered to be in front of the ball -> 9
- Defenders in yellow zone are considered to be behind the ball -> 2

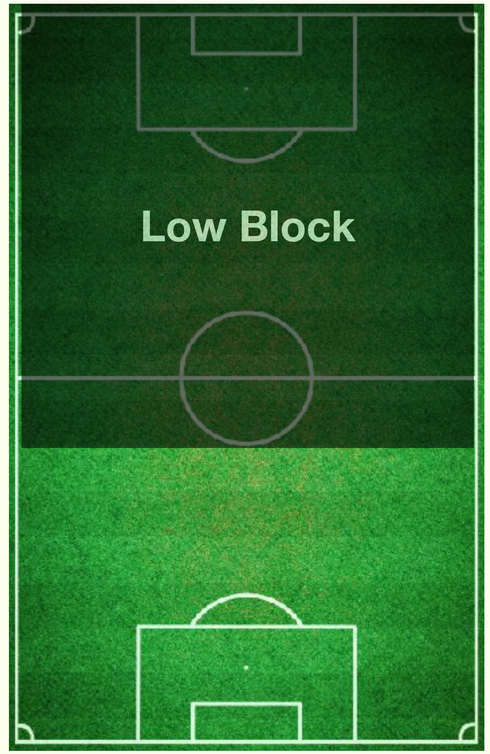

- Starts at the moment a team loses the ball
- Ends when one of the following occur:
  - The ball goes dead
  - The team recovers the ball
  - Another mode (high-press, mid-block, low-block) is detected after at least 3 seconds from losing the ball
- Press after loss: If in the 1s after losing the ball there are at least 2 defenders that have moved closer to the ball at an average running speed (above 2m/s)
- Defensive transition: if the condition above is not satisfied

no defender behind yellow line

no defender beyond half semicircle

- Infielders in the black zone
- At most three defenders in the opposing half if none of the advanced/deep conditions are satisfied, we label it as low block

defending goal

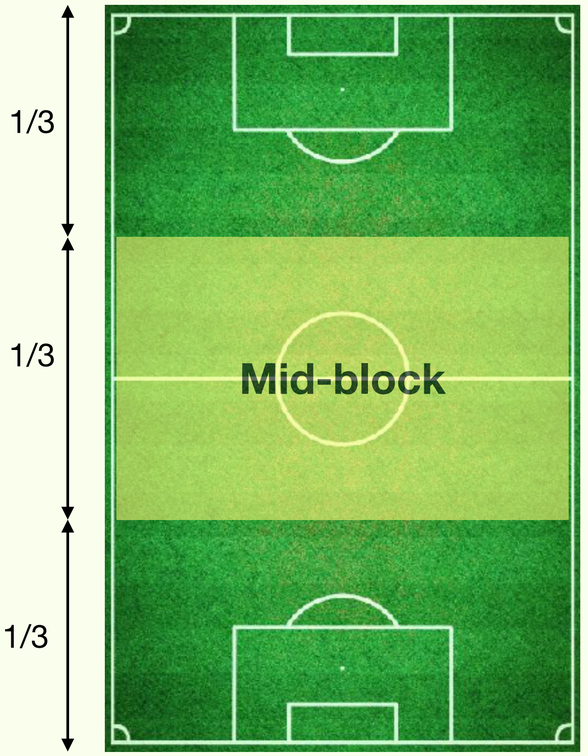

- Infielders in the blue zone (has changed)
- ~~At most one defender is behind the ball~~
- Ball is inbounded from goal kick

defending goal

- Infielders in the red zone (has changed)
- ~~At most three defenders are behind the ball~~
- At least six defenders are more advanced than the black line

defending goal

- Infielders in the yellow zone
- At least four defenders in the opposing half

everything else is labeled as UNCLEAR

List of defensive modes

- Goal-kick press
- High-press
- Mid-block
- Low-block
  - Low-block advanced
  - Low-block
  - Low-block deep
- Defensive transition
- Press after loss
- Set piece defense: When a set piece in the own half occurs (corner, throw-in, free kick), assign Set piece defense until the ball goes out-of-play or possession is regained
- UNCLEAR (everything else)